

Maritime Auto Parts, incorporated in 1932 as Maritime Auto Salvage, has always been a forerunner in automotive recycling and a home name within Atlantic Canada.

Quality and Service Maritime is committed to satisfying motoring needs efficiently and takes pride in providing quality auto parts and honest, courteous service.

Employees At any time, Maritime provides employment opportunities for up to 18 people locally, offering a safe and environmentally friendly place to work.

Maritime Auto Parts

Re-using quality parts from another vehicle is perhaps the purest and oldest form of recycling. You save money on your vehicle repair costs. Tested and guaranteed, these parts sell for up to half the price of new and are still original manufactured parts.

Re-using auto parts enables you to maintain the integrity of the original specifications as designed for your vehicle.

Using greenparts keeps waste from our landfills and saves energy and harmful emissions created in the manufacturing processes. Maritime is an active participant in the Retire Your Ride, Ford Motor Company, and other vehicle end-of-life initiatives helping to properly process these vehicles.

Awards, service and industry leadership

Over the past 20 years, Maritime has been honoured with awards and recognitions as well as contributing through service and community organizations.

Working towards excellence in the automotive recycling industry, Maritime participates at National and International levels helping to set the pace for safe and advanced vehicle dismantling processes and dismantling.

Maritime is proud – working with world leaders in helping to build global environmental practices for this industry.
