

JOHANNA MATTHEWS PHOTO

Mingo means music

The walls of Mingo Music Sales in Truro are crowded with guitars, fiddles, trumpets, clarinets, other instruments and print music, and the worn wood floors support pianos, keyboards and drums.

"I'd like to think that everything that's here is hanging up for a reason," says owner David Mingo. "It deserves to be on our wall."

As part of a family business that began in 1967 and has evolved into a full-line music store, David and his music-knowledgeable staff want customers to get good value. Staff work to find the best mix of price and quality, along with providing follow-up service, such as lessons, advice and repairs, if needed.

"It's kind of that after-sale thing where we're still with you even after the item has left the door." It's been that way for nearly 45 years, in Truro and beyond, where Mingo means music.

STEVE HARDER PHOTOS

MINGO MUSIC SALES SINCE 1967

590 Prince Street, Truro, NS B2N 1G3
(902) 895-7702

Instruments Print Music Instructions
David Mingo, BA, BBA Greg, C.J., Keith
www.mingomusic.com