

Newmac builds boilers & furnaces in Debert for NA market

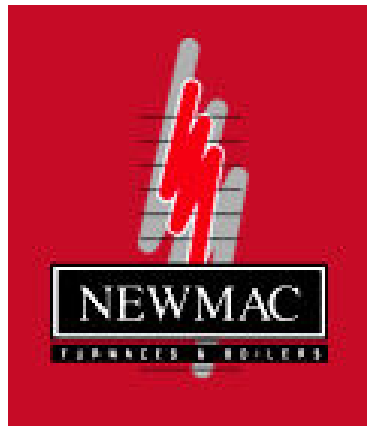

A company with its headquarters in Debert is building quality furnaces and boilers sold throughout Canada and the United States.

Newmac Mfg. Inc. is not only a major supplier of furnaces, but also a major employer. The company currently employs about 75 workers at its Colchester County plant.

"Our multi-fired units are competitively priced and built under strict ISO 9001 standards to ensure years of dependability," says Ken Johnson, company president.

"All units are backed by the best warranties in the business and Newmac offers technical support that you can count on."

The company, in business for more than 30 years, provides custom metal fabrication, offers CAD design, laboratory testing and other services and products made in Nova Scotia.
